Policy Statement

Background

Mental health and wellbeing for young children is about their emotions, what they experience and how they learn to manage and express them; the relationships they form and the child's ability to engage in close and positive relationships. It also incorporates their engagement with the environment and if they have opportunities to explore and discover (1). A strong sense of wellbeing and positive mental health provides children with confidence and optimism, which maximises their learning potential, gives them a greater chance of long-term success, and helps them build stronger relationships (2). Early childhood services play a key role in promoting mental health and wellbeing in children (3) and can affect children's long-term mental health, relationships and learning (4).

Scope

All members of our service, including educators, other BKS staff, children, families and volunteers will be supported to meet this policy.

Definitions

Mental health in early childhood can be understood as a young child's ability to: 'experience, regulate and express emotions; form close and secure interpersonal relationships; and explore the environment and learn – all in the context of family, community and cultural expectations for young children. Infant mental health is synonymous with healthy social and emotional development' (1).
